Matteo Brioni - Raw Earth

Brioni's story begins in the evocative brick kilns of Gonzaga. Here the family tradition of brick making, going back almost a century, is transformed into a personal passion for form that have inspired Matteo Brioni to take risks with a material that has always been an essential element of architecture. His interest in the 'raw system' was actualized in 2010, when Matteo Brioni established his eponymous company and experimenting with Raw Earth.

Under the art direction of Marialaura Rossiello of Studio Irvine, the brand has become the benchmark for Raw Earth. Careful research and selection of earths by Matteo Brioni has materialized taking on the form of Stratigrafie (Stratigraphies). Matteo Brioni, in occasion of Dubai Design Week, takes part to Downtown Design Dubai fair.

Cavatorta Group Companies

Cavatorta Group companies produce a wide range of high quality wire mesh products for a variety of residential, industrial and sports applications, for the building industry, agriculture and gardening. Cavatorta also has a complete range of galvanized and plastic coated wire, nails – including masonry nails - and accessories designed to meet various demands. The history of Cavatorta Group started in 1961 with the construction of the first factory in Parma (Italy). The business operated in the production of fencing systems, to which later we added the works of wire drawing and galvanizing. The widening of the range continued with the production of welded, galvanized and plastic coated wire. Today Cavatorta is an international group with production factories in Italy, France and Romania, subsidiaries in Great Britain, Portugal and the United States and distributors in over fifty countries.
